“ Back in the days of the 1950s and 1960s when families got together for major events, there were three generations of Woodards at Christmas, Thanks Giving, Easter and other "family important dates" all the time. Mary Ellen and I were the same age. We always picked at each other with a thump or pinch, then the race was on to get the perpetrator back with some equally unpleasant retaliation. This process continued through our lives and contacts at much tamer levels, thank goodness, all the way into our 60s. It's nice to remember the happiness and fun we had water skiing, fishing and just enjoying our lives.
