“ My dear Wade, how can it be?? You always hear people say that parents should not outlive their children; well you can say the same about teachers outliving their favorite students! And, not only that, we became the greatest of friends. I remember the fresh little fifth grader trying his very best; the book about the rabbit that the whole class was part of; and you were chosen to rewrite the lines because of your excellent penmanship! Then we were so fortunate to be together again in 6th grade; how could I not call you my own?? Through the years, all the phone calls and visits, and offers of help when I needed anything, and I had your back too. Or, so I thought. We forgot that everything happens according to God's time, not ours. Either your lifetime was too short, sweet boy, or mine is way too long. You carry a piece of my heart with you, until I see you again one day!

“ Wade Collier! We met in PreK at 4 years old. Our class in tiny little Winters, Texas consisted of 41 kids who met there in that little building with Mrs. Bryan. A few newbies came in and out over the years but those same 41 left that campus as Blizzard graduates 14 years later. Ooooooh the memories. I can clearly recall UIL trips, you telling me to stop arguing with teachers in class so we didn't have so much homework, waiting at the end of the hall for the bell to release us for summer vacation, riding bikes with Kelly, Scarlett, Joey and Jeffery all over town, track meets, Wes-T-Go nights, football pep rallies followed by rowdy games, your unique masculine talents of French braiding hair and twirling a baton (Monica and Brianna's influences no doubt), and Spanish class where we were the last two seniors that needed to complete the final exam just to graduate. The theme that carries from one eventful memory to the next is this: love. You loved everyone you met and they loved you. Hilarious also. Sometimes I don't think you meant to be, but you had us all cracking up most of the time. We shared some adulthood milestones such as meeting each other's babies and drinking a couple of beers in the rain at the park commiserating. I know now you are safe, at peace, and with your "bestest", Monica. I will carry you in my heart always. "And then they had cookies and hot chocolate and lived happily ever after."

“Sweetest Wade, so many memories with you but by far, my favorite memory was my sophomore year. We chatted at WesTGo and I vented to you about a lot of things. I was feeling so down. The next day at school when I opened my locker there was a Reece’s cup and a note saying “Gracie my homie, you’re so pretty and sweet to be down. Keep your head up and keep pimping always lol love Wade Killa you always knew how to make everyone smile. You will be truly missed friend. Thank you for all the smiles and laughs over the years
